

DEMOCRATS, GOP NAME CONGRESS LEADERS

About Town

And Country
By TIMOTHY T.

The New Year has arrived and can Spring be far behind? Can't be too far, because Timmo already has received his first garden catalogue.

But the beaver, I understand from Mrs. Charles Wilkins, are busy in the south part of the county. They're some craftsmen, sawing off pieces of wood and making dams of them. Good sized pieces. They can saw off pieces several inches thick and one piece, I understand, was about a foot thick.

I got an unusual piece of mail the other day. The envelope contained two post cards. One contained a picture of the old Orpheum theatre with the Airdrome right beside it and on the back page was "Do you remember this place?" Vaguely, vaguely, I believe I do. Well, maybe I don't. Maybe I just remember the pictures I've seen of them and the stories I've heard.

The other, which says on the back, "Happy New Year Timmo from The Old Timers," shows a bird's eye view of the northwest corner of the square taken from the court house around 1910 or 1912. The buildings you see, where Rainbow's now is, where you now see Hart's and the First National bank, are easy to identify. Most unusual thing about the picture: Nice trees in the court house yard and the lone horse hitched to a wagon in front of the Duncan-Baker hardware store.

KEEPING UP WITH OPAL DEPT.: After Opal Catlin left Hawaii and went to Alaska I lost track of her. But not for long.

This department received a letter with the letterhead: "Opal Lee Catlin, Pago Pago, Tutuila, American Samoa."

And said Opal Lee: "No Christmas cards out here. No pretty Christmas stationery. Nevertheless, the wishes are just as strong. Merry Christmas! Happy New Year!"

MAIL FROM AFAR: The Busy Men's Bible class of the First Methodist church sponsors in India the education of a youth in Leonard Theological college at Jabalpur.

Marvin H. Harper, the principal, has written C. C. Harding of the class a comprehensive letter telling of the life there.

Principal Harper relates that a year ago a new dormitory was opened at the school which was considered adequate, but requests for enrollment were so great that it was filled to capacity and the old hostel, formerly used, was reopened as an annex.

"Some have suffered persecution and ostracism because of the faith," says Mr. Harper of the students. "Others come from homes which have been Christian for nearly 2,000 years."

"Our greatest need now is for more financial assistance for the students. Many of you have been providing scholarship help... and it is our hope and prayer that you may continue, and if possible, increase your gifts."

"These are wonderful days in India. Christ is speaking to the hearts of many in a way which has not been possible before."

Study Tighter Controls on Red Diplomats

Action Considered Against Hungarian, Rumanian Envoys

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is considering tightening controls on travel of Hungarian and Rumanian diplomats, State Department officials said today. They did not predict any immediate action, but said the matter is being considered and could lead to new controls.

Any such action would follow Monday's strict new rules declaring about 27 per cent of the United States "off limits" for all Russians in the United States except those assigned to the United Nations secretariat. The move was in retaliation for similar restrictions imposed earlier by the Soviet Union on Americans in Russia.

The U. S. order closes to Russian travelers many border areas and other key points, including 893 counties in 39 states and 16 cities in otherwise open areas.

The State Department said the closed areas were selected on the basis of "reciprocity and security."

The regulation requiring Russian officials to give 48 hours notice before traveling more than 25 miles from the center of Washington or New York was extended to include all persons with Russian passports.

The action closed to Russian travel a 15-mile wide band along the Mexican border except for a portion in Webb County, Tex. It also closed a substantial area along the Canadian border.

In 1953, Hungary set up a closed area to American diplomats but permitted U. S. travel in about one half of the nation on 24 hours' notification. The only completely free area set up was in the neighborhood of Budapest. The United States has similar restrictions on Hungarian diplomats here, but has not yet established any completely barred zones.

In Romania, American diplomats are free to travel in Bucharest, but must obtain permission to travel to other areas. In addition, some frontier zones and cities are completely closed to U. S. officials.

Sen. McClellan Says Witnesses Must Testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan warned uncooperative witnesses today not to expect soft treatment when he takes over from Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy as chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

McClellan, the iron-jawed Arkansas Democrat, who once was a county prosecutor, told friends he will be fair to all witnesses who appear before the subcommittee.

But he said he will have little patience for those who refuse to testify.

McClellan bowed out as chairman of the subcommittee Monday after a day-long hearing on Communist infiltration into defense plants.

He told newsmen: "I step down with both relief and regret. I hope John McClellan will proceed to dig out Communists as vigorously as we have in the past. From his statements, he apparently has that in mind."

The controversial Wisconsin Republican said he will continue to take an active part in the work of the subcommittee.

McClellan, who headed the subcommittee before McCarthy took it over, said one of the first tasks of the group will be to wind up investigations which McCarthy left incomplete.

Probably the first of these, he said, will be hearings to question several alleged Communists in Pittsburgh, Pa., defense plants who did not testify in McCarthy's "swan song" hearing Monday.

These witnesses asked for more time so they could find lawyers.

To Dismiss Carrier Mills High Classes For Jennings Rites

Classes at the Carrier Mills high school will be dismissed Wednesday afternoon for the funeral of Mrs. Edward Jennings, mother of Warren G. Jennings, principal of the Carrier Mills Community high school.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the General Baptist church in Junction, conducted by Rev. Albert Harris with burial in Westwood cemetery near Shawneetown.

Members of the CMCHS faculty and student council will attend the services in a group.

Junior High Fire Loss

(An Editorial)

The Harrisburg community suffered two distinct losses in destruction of the old Junior high building by fire New Year's morning.

The first is the loss suffered by children of the school, especially the eighth graders who are approaching high school and need every day of their studies to complete their curriculum.

Although arrangements will be made to resume instruction, probably before the end of this week, facilities will not be completely adequate, and instruction will be under a handicap.

The second loss is financial. The insurance carried on the old building will not replace it, for the simple reason it was insured in line with its depreciated value as a 30-year-old structure. As an old building it provided floor space and class rooms the same as would a new building.

It is likely that, on the basis of present material and labor costs, a new building will cost as much as $100,000 more than the insurance will replace.

The new addition recently completed does not duplicate facilities of the old building, except for the gymnasium. Otherwise, it simply provided added facilities for instruction according to the needs of the present-day world.

May Resume Junior High Classes Before End of the Week

Classes for Harrisburg Junior high school pupils may be resumed before the end of the week although there is no announcement as yet, it was learned today.

Russell Malan, superintendent of schools, is working on a program that would put some of the pupils in Logan and Horace Mann grade schools, although the facilities at these buildings would be taxed, and use church buildings for the remainder of the pupils.

Those sent to Horace Mann and Logan in all probability would finish out the term there. The students placed in classrooms in churches would be there on a temporary basis, or until the new addition is ready for occupancy.

Meanwhile Mr. Malan and the members of the city schools board of education are conferring with the insurance adjusters and Architect R. D. Brown regarding the burned-out original building and what to do regarding its replacement. The building, constructed in 1921, was destroyed by fire New Year's morning.

Carpentier to Oppose Change In License Plates

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter said today he will oppose any new attempt to pass legislation for "permanent" Illinois vehicle license plates.

Some states issue the so-called permanent plates to motorists for several years use. New "tags," or small inserts, are issued each year for attachments to the plates.

The Illinois Chamber of Commerce's 1955 legislative forecast said permanent plates probably will again be considered by the State Legislature, which holds its opening session Wednesday.

Carpentier said he had checked with the National Association of Traffic Administrators "and found there are generally objections to permanent plates from the states that have adopted them."

"First, there is the matter of enforcement," he said. "The tags or inserts are always getting stolen or switched from car to car. This way a considerable number of registrants are lost by the state."

"Then, expired plates are also harder to spot," he said.

"We're not convinced permanent plates will save the money that proponents claim," he said. "You'd have to put out a heavier and more expensive plate so it would last several years. Then it would be an expensive changeover in our administrative system here."

Carpentier said "we'll sit tight" on the present system of issuing two metal plates each year in Illinois and "let other states do some more experimenting."

Mrs. Neil Markham Dies at Eldorado

Mrs. Ella Bell Markham, 79, Eldorado resident, died Monday at 2:45 p. m. in the Ferrell hospital following a lingering illness.

She was the former Ella Bell Garrison before her marriage to Neil Markham who preceded her in death, dying in 1947. At that time they were residents of Harrisburg.

Surviving are the following children: Ray of Muddy, Gene of Joliet, Claude of Tower Hill, Ethel Jones of Galatia and Grace Bean of Hammond, Ind., and 18 grandchildren.

The body will be taken from the Turner funeral home Wednesday at 11 a. m. to the Eldorado First Baptist church where the funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Rev. O. C. Cooper and Rev. C. C. Lowe will officiate, and burial will be in the Equality Elmwood cemetery.

The Harrisburg city council today voted to amend a city ordinance which would hike license fees for fortune tellers.

Present fee is $3 a month. The council voted to make the fee $300 a month for each palmist, payable in advance.

In other action today the council allowed current bills and accepted the minutes of the water board, which met last night.

Purchase Property

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Blair have moved into their new place of residence at 311 East Poplar street, which they purchased recently from Dr. N. A. Herrmann. Mr. Blair is a salesman for the Blankenship auto supply here. Mr. and Mrs. William J. Hopkins, who resided in the Herrmann property, have moved into the Dr. Carl J. Hauptmann residence at 325 West Church street.

Judge Rejects New Trial Pleas For Dr. Sheppard

Will Hear Third Motion for New Evidence Saturday

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard's sole hope to escape a life sentence for the slaying of his wife appeared today to be on the grounds of new evidence.

Judge Edward Blythin turned down two defense requests for a new trial Monday and said the Bay Village osteopath had been afforded "a fair trial by an unusually intelligent and impartial jury."

But the judge went ahead with plans to hear on Saturday a third motion based on the defense claim that new evidence has been uncovered.

Dr. Sheppard, who was convicted of second degree murder in the July 4 slaying of his pregnant wife, will remain in the county jail here until after the Saturday hearing. If it is delayed or denied he probably will be transferred to the State Penitentiary at Columbus to start serving his sentence. The conviction made provision for parole at the end of 10 years.

Submit 40 Instances

In Monday's proceedings, defense counsel William J. Corrigan submitted 40 alleged errors in one motion and added another which was classified as a supplemental motion by the judge.

Judge Blythin, in a memorandum filing 15 typewritten pages, eliminated one by one the claimed errors which involved such matters as news coverage, jury handling and court procedure. The lengthy rebuttal rejected the alleged errors with such terse comments as "no facts," "indefinite wording," and "vague."

Judge Blythin gave most of his attention in the memorandum to the defense motion charging the press coverage of the case as "prejudicial to the defendant."

The defense contended from the outset of the trial that the press coverage was prejudicial to the young osteopath.

Judge Blythin held that "Such exposure to public attention are not matters of prejudice, for or against, either the state or defendant, but matters of news interest to newspapers."

He noted the case attracted both national and international attention but pointed out that "the defendant and his chief counsel were far more gracious to the press, photographers and gallery than was the court."

Daily Register Classified Ads Sell Restaurants

Daily Register classified ads have sold two restaurants within the past week.

One of these was the Tucker cafe, in the old city hall building on South Vine street, operated by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tucker, and sold by them through a Daily Register classified "For Sale" after one insertion.

The purchaser is Mrs. Lou McClusky, the beauty operator, who has also had some restaurant experience. Mrs. McClusky took charge of the restaurant Monday and has an ad in today's Register, inviting continued patronage of all customers.

The home at present is caring for 64 children and operates on a budget of slightly more than $100,000 a year.

Other guests at the meeting were honor students from the local high and junior high schools. They were Anne Endsley, Judith Morse, Elizabeth Klein, Avah Phillips, Gary Karnes and Cheryl Wiley.

69th General Assembly to Meet at Noon Wednesday; Message by Gov. Stratton

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Gov. William G. Stratton put the finishing touches on his message to the Illinois Legislature today as lawmakers began gathering for their 1955 session.

Gavel will rap in the Capitol at noon Wednesday to sound the opening of the 69th General Assembly—a six-month session that may prove to be a key meeting in the state's modern political history.

First, the 51 senators and 152 representatives will dispose of matters like choosing their party leaders. Then, about two hours later, they'll settle down for the day's main business.

That's Stratton's chore — the delivery of his "state of the state" speech. It's a report on the first two years of his administration, and a sketch of what he wants the lawmakers to enact this year.

Stratton was whipping his speech into final shape today, and aides said it would go to the printers shortly. It is expected to be about 4,000 words, twice as long as his 1953 speech.

One of Stratton's major topics will be a speed limit on Illinois highways, as proposed by his public safety director, Joseph D. Bibb. Present law requires only that motorists drive at speeds that are reasonable and safe under the conditions.

It was learned that Stratton plans to suggest a speed limit law.

Says Low Coal Production Hurts Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Coal Assn. said today that the amount of coal produced in 1954 should "shock even those who are most apathetic about the national security."

Tom Pickett, executive vice president of the association, said preliminary figures show that about 390 million tons of bituminous coal were produced in 1954. He said 650 to 700 million tons would be needed in event of an all-out mobilization effort.

This means, he said, that the country is "ill-prepared so long as the coal industry does not have a stockpile of productive capacity to meet estimated demands."

The 1954 production, he added, was the lowest of any year since 1939.

The very nature of the industry makes it impossible to speed up coal production to the necessary level in case of an emergency, Pickett said.

Mines closed for any length of time, he explained, fill with water and removal takes many months. Mines also must be re-timbered, tracks repaired or re-installed, the mines re-wired and new equipment brought in, he said.

He said lack of employment in the coal industry also impairs national defense because the industry loses thousands of experienced miners to other fields.

If experts are correct in predicting coal requirements of another war, Pickett said "it is imperative that coal production be raised by normal demand to a point where the industry has the stockpile of productive capacity sufficient for mobilization requirements."

Brown said the cars will be used "for any purpose where they fit into our plans for enforcement or investigation." He said many states, including neighboring Indiana, now use unmarked cars.

"It should have a good psychological effect on the highways," Brown said. "Many drivers watch for police cars more than the laws on the highways."

Regular Illinois state police cars are black and white, with "State Police" written on the sides, and back, a small map of Illinois on each side and the district number on the rear.

Receive Notice Of Dale Appeal

CHICAGO (AP) — The U. S. Court of Appeals today received a notice of the appeal of Evan R. Dale, southern Illinois labor leader, from his 15-year sentence for racketeering.

Dale was found guilty Dec. 7 on all counts of a three-count indictment charging him with trying to extort $1,030,000 from the original prime contractor on the 160-million-dollar Jopka, Ill., electrical installation.

James Bateman, AFL pipefitters union official of Murphysboro, Ill., convicted with Dale by the U. S. District Court at East St. Louis, was fined $2,000 and placed on five years probation.

The Appeals Court here has not set the appeal for docketing.

Rayburn Will Succeed Martin In House Post

Leaders Will Be Formally Elected Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and Republicans named their leaders today for the Democratic-controlled 84th Congress which convenes Wednesday.

House Democrats went through the formality of nominating Rep. Sam Rayburn (Tex.) as speaker and naming Rep. John W. McCormack (Mass.) as their floor leader. Rayburn, who has served as speaker longer than anyone else, will be elected again to that post Wednesday when the Democrats formally take control. He will succeed Rep. Joseph W. Martin Jr. (R-Mass.) who becomes House Republican leader.

Senate Republicans unanimously elected Sen. Styles Bridges (N. H.) as chairman of their Policy Committee, succeeding Sen. Homer Ferguson (Mich.) who was defeated for re-election.

Knowland Is Re-Elected

They re-elected other leaders as follows: Sen. William F. Knowland (Calif.), GOP floor leader.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (Mass.), assistant GOP floor leader (whip).

Sen. Eugene D. Millikin (Colo.), chairman of the Senate Republican Conference.

Sen. Milton R. Young (N. D.), secretary of the Senate GOP Conference.

Although the Republicans have had some bruising internal battles in the past year, there was no contest over any of their leadership posts. Their meeting was described as full of "good will and harmony."

Bridges Gives Up Post

With Democrats taking control, Bridges will relinquish his post as Senate president pro tempore to Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.).

Sen. Earle C. Clements (Ky.) had no advance opposition for reelection as Democratic whip nor did Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (Mo.) to keep his post as secretary of the Democratic Senate conference.

Sen. Walter F. George (Ga.), senior member of the Senate, was the obvious Democratic nominee to succeed Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) as president pro tempore. The formal election takes place Wednesday when the new Senate organizes.

The same applies to Rayburn's election as speaker to succeed Rep. Joseph W. Martin (R-Mass.), who will become GOP House floor leader.

A New Power

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT
The coming regime of Democratic Gov. Elect Harriman in New York will be of national interest for many reasons, not the least of which will be the attention it focuses on the activities of one Carmine G. DeSapio.

Harriman has named DeSapio his secretary of state, and in this fairly exposed place he may show the country a little more about his makeup and character. This knowledge will be of considerable value, for DeSapio has become a political figure of no small importance.

He is the boss of Tammany Hall, the Democratic national committee for New York, and the man who single-handedly put Harriman across for governor at the Democratic state convention last September.

This means that henceforth he is automatically a large voice in national Democratic councils. He more than Harriman, who is a relative political novice, will cast the weight of New York's 90-odd votes at the next party presidential convention.

What makes DeSapio more than ordinary interest is that he presents himself as a brand-new kind of Tammany chieftain. When he took over the faded organization in 1949, it was shattered and creaking, with a reputation for corruption. He set out to reform and rebuild it.

In the ensuing years, DeSapio brought in young Democrats, backed civic reforms, lectured on politics and government. He suggested that Tammany had been streamlined and that its new leader was a professional politician in the best sense—almost like a career diplomat.

In 1953 he scored his first major success when he chose Robert F. Wagner, Jr., to run for mayor of New York.

In 1954, Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., set out early to capture the nomination for governor. But he worked on upstate politicians. Meantime, DeSapio had other ideas. When the Democratic convention rolled around, he had picked his man—not Roosevelt, but Harriman.

With the votes counted, DeSapio looked like a shrewd kingmaker. Harriman squeaked through to win, while Roosevelt, billed as the great vote-getter, tumbled in humiliating defeat in his bid for the state attorney generalship.

Henceforth, we shall begin to see more clearly how accurate a picture DeSapio has drawn of himself and a revitalized Tammany. There is no question that a new power has risen in the Democratic Party. The only riddle is whether or not he is a force making for a higher level of politics in his party and the country.

Colors are weapons in a home. Blue, for instance, is soothing and restful. It might make an excitable person more calm, but on the other hand, it might make a moody person depressed.

See Rough Battle Ahead For Ike's Foreign Trade Plan

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Clarence B. Randall, chairman of the board of Inland Steel has been having a tough time trying to put over President Eisenhower's foreign trade program. But at last he seems to be making progress.

Since bringing out the report of the Randall Commission of 17 Congressmen and business leaders last January, Mr. Randall has been working half-time as a White House consultant. He has reviewed the program to see if there were buys in it. And he has listened and talked to anyone interested in this subject of tariffs and foreign trade, seizing every opportunity to urge adoption of the program by Congress in 1955.

ONE OF HIS prize speeches on this subject was made before the big and powerful National Manufacturers Assn., in New York. This group, as conservative as any business organization in the country, is split right down the middle on whether the reciprocal trade agreements program should be extended.

Companies with a big export business are for it. Companies who have to compete with imports from abroad are dead against it. NAM is so divided on this subject that it refuses to take any policy stand of its own on the question.

AS HE WAS COMING down in the elevator next morning, a couple whom he didn't know recognized him and smiled. The man spoke to Mr. Randall and said: "Come here, brother, and shake hands. God, how I loathed every word you said last night. But you converted my wife."

This simple statement revealed one of the most striking developments in this perennial, national debate. The women's organizations seem to be all for expanding foreign trade. It's the men who are divided.

The major farm groups—Grange and Farm Bureau—are for it. Farmers' Union, made up of smaller farmers, is opposed.

THE NATIONAL LABOR union organizations are for it—American Federation of Labor and CIO. David J. McDonald, head of the Steelworkers union, who has battled Mr. Randall on many a labor contract, was a public member of the Randall Commission and voted right along with the chairman on practically every issue.

But many local unions of ceramics, textile and other industries which must compete with imports, will line up with their bosses against the program when Senate

Finance and House Ways and Means Committees begin hearings on legislation to carry out the Randall Commission program.

The chances for passage of a three-year extension of the trade program with supplementary legislation look a lot better than they did a year ago. In the last Congress, a one-year extension was the most that could be secured.

Assurances have been given that there will be no "end-run" by Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks, carrying the ball, behind high-tariff business interference.

Nevertheless, the battle over passage will be bitter. Just how bitter it will be is perhaps best indicated by the experience of Mr. Randall's own Inland Steel Co. One of its customers recently cancelled a $20,000 order because of the prominent part the chairman has played in this work.

A boycott was then organized in an attempt to make its suppliers take Inland off their trade list.

That shows how high the stakes are, and how the game is being played for the prize in this most controversial issue.

Record 214,000 Births in State During 1954

SPRINGFIELD (P)—The Illinois Public Health Department today estimated there were a record 214,000 births in Illinois in 1954.

This was a 5 per cent increase over 1953, and resulted in a natural population increase of 123,000 during 1954, another record.

An estimated 92,500 residents of Illinois died in the year, 4 per cent fewer than in 1953. Dr. Roland R. Cross, state public health director, said the state's population increased from 9,044,000 July 1, 1953, to 9,162,000 July 1, 1954, and about 9,210,000 by Jan. 1, 1955.

However, Cross said these figures might be changed by migrations in and out of Illinois. Cross said the 1954 death rate was about 9.9 deaths for every 1,000 Illinois residents. He said preliminary indications are that heart disease and chronic diseases associated with old age did not take as many lives in 1954.

Cross said prosperity, home building and diminished fear of childbirth by mothers were factors in the record birth rate.

Opportunities for Special Training in the Air Force

"Between July of last year and July, 1955, some 176,000 Air Force personnel will have received training in one of the 288 Air Force courses offering specialized training in a technical field. This means that there are plenty of opportunities for volunteers to learn a specialized vocation," according to M-Sgt. Peter F. Demediuk, who heads the recruiting station here.

M-Sgt. Demediuk said that men joining the Air Force will first be sent to basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. "The technical training schools take anywhere from four to 22 weeks," Demediuk added.

"About 70 per cent of the new enlistees will be sent to technical schools while approximately 26 per cent will be given on-the-job training," he said. The other four per cent will be assigned to some special Air Force project.

Airmen who qualify are offered technical training in such fields as radar, communications and meteorology. Any interested person may further obtain information about Air Force technical school and opportunities in the Air Force by contacting M-Sgt. Peter F. Demediuk at his Harrisburg office any day 8 to 11 a. m. and 4 to 5 p. m. Check your local Post Office for times when he will visit other areas.

Tale of Swamp Rabbits Too Fast for Shotgun Wins World Champion Liar Award

BURLINGTON, Wis. (P)—Louisiana swamp rabbits are so fast you can't hit them with a shotgun. You've got to use a high-powered rifle.

"To kill these rabbits on the run, you have to aim fast, shoot and then let out a shrill whistle. When you whistle, the rabbit stops—and the bullet has a chance to catch up with him."

That yarn won for Shelton R. Day of Baton Rouge, La., the "World Champion Liar" award today.

The Burlington Liars' Club decided Day's lie was the champion of those submitted during 1954 in competition for the coveted prize. The Liars' Club, which started 25 years ago when two newsmen here needed a year-end feature for their papers, also chose the best lie submitted in a quarter-century of prevaricating. Bruno Ceresa, Langeloth, Pa., won the "champion of champions" title for this classic that won the 1933 prize.

"My grandfather had a clock so old that the shadow of the pendulum, swinging back and forth, had worn a hole in the back of the case."

As usual, the club gave some honorable mention awards. Among them: From S. R. Woodburn, West Union, W. Va.: "The soil in my neighbor's garden is so rich he has to pick the beans while they are in bloom, so they won't go to seed before they are done cooking."

From Merritt F. Hines, Midland, Tex.: "Weather down here is chancey. Not so long ago I took the double barreled shotgun out to the field with me to shoot crows. Later, I leaned it against the fence and forgot it when I went in to dinner. While I was taking a nap after dinner, it came up a big cloud and thundered and cut up like it was going to come a gully-washer, but it never did rain any at the house." When I went out to get my shotgun I found it had rained so hard that one barrel was full of water—but there wasn't a drop in the other one."

Sen. Morse Sees Stevenson Victory Over Ike in 1956

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Wayne Morse (Ind-Ore.) predicts Adlai Stevenson will defeat President Eisenhower overwhelmingly if the two run against each other again in 1956.

Morse said Sunday night (on "Meet the Press," NBC) he thinks President Eisenhower will run for a second term. But he said the President is not as popular as he was in 1952 and probably would be beaten if his opponent were Stevenson again.

Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okl.) said, meanwhile, he definitely will not be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1956. He said (on "Face the Nation," CBS) he has a "very fixed purpose" to stay out of the presidential race.

Kerr said Adlai Stevenson or "whoever the candidate is" will run on the party's record in the past and upcoming congresses. He declined to say whether he would support Stevenson.

Five Children Die In Fire Started In Family Argument

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Five children died Monday night when a former mental patient knocked over an oil stove during a family argument and started a fire in a two-story frame house.

The victims were identified as Betty Jean Pierce, 8; Sherlee Pierce, 6; Allen Pierce, 4; Caroline Craion, 2, and Juanita Johnson, 10.

Mrs. Ada Lee Pierce, 26, was critically burned while rescuing three other children from the blazing home. The children, Vicki Pierce, 2, Leonard Pierce, 9 months, and Geraldine Craion, 9 months, their grandmother, Mrs. Lucertha Valentine, 45, and Mrs. Perlie Craion, 22, were burned slightly.

Police said the blaze started when Eugene Pierce, 35, father of three of the victims, knocked over an oil stove during an argument with his father-in-law, L. C. Valentine.

Pierce had been estranged from his wife since he was released from Battle Creek Veterans' Hospital after mental treatment two months ago, but had arrived to visit his wife at Valentine's home where she and her family had been living along with her sister and her family.

Youth Admits Killing Sister In Pillow Fight

GALION, Ohio (AP) — Frederick Spears, 17, today confessed he murdered his 16-year-old sister Patricia in her bed and dragged her body to a thicket where it was found last Saturday.

Crawford County Sheriff Elwood F. Jacobs said Spears confessed after the boy viewed his sister's body at a funeral home.

Spears told the sheriff that after he returned home from taking his mother to work Friday morning, he yelled to his sister to close her bedroom window. He said she told him to do it and the pillow fight followed.

The boy said the pillow fell to the floor between the bed and the wall and he went to pick it up.

The sheriff said Spears told him that he found his hands around his sister's throat. Spears said he was "vague and rather blank" about what happened after that.

The boy said he tried to remove his sister's pajamas but had trouble getting them off. Spears told the sheriff he then took a cord from his pocket and tied it around the girl's neck to hold the body up.

Jacobs said no motive has yet been established in the slaying. Jacobs added that he is not satisfied the boy has told the full story.

They have taken their last journey. On a beautiful ship called rest, away from this world of sorrow. To a land of peace and rest. And when our call to follow comes. Where they have gone before. We hope to see them waiting. To meet us at Heaven's door. Sadly missed by children, Florence Ewell and Dallas Gidumb. *158-1

Snow Hampers Search for Boy Scout Lost in Mountains

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP) — Snow and wind hampered the search today for a former Brooklyn Boy Scout missing since Saturday in the mountains 25 miles east of here.

The sheriff's office identified the missing hiker as Leonard D. Rosenberg, 20, North Hollywood, Calif., whose parents live in Sea Gate, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Rosenberg was with a church group hiking party when he disappeared. He left the party Saturday afternoon for an extended hike into a remote region and failed to return. Authorities theorized he could have hiked out to safety in a back region or "holed up."

The Romans believed that tin was a variety of lead.

U. S. to Pay Japan For Loss of Life In H-Bomb Tests

TOKYO (AP) — The United States has agreed to pay Japan two million dollars for loss of life and property as result of its hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific last year, the Foreign Office announced today.

The agreement was signed by Foreign Minister Mamoru Shigemitsu and U. S. Ambassador John Allison at a ceremony at the Foreign Ministry Building.

Allison assured the Japanese in an informal statement after the signing that the United States "will take every possible precaution" against a recurrence of the Fortunate Dragon incident in future tests.

"This is not a safe world," he warned. "It is sometimes necessary to make dangerous experiments. But they should be surrounded by the utmost precautions."

Japanese officials hoped the agreement would heal the anti-American feelings which were aroused by the atom-busting of 23 Japanese tuna fishermen near Bikini March 1 last year and end the agitation against further H-bomb tests.

The United States specified that it did not recognize any legal responsibility to compensate the fishermen of the Japanese fishing industry for subsequent losses as a result of the "atomic tuna jitters" which followed the illness of 23 fishermen and the death of one of them.

Equality Edges Ridgway, 55-53, In Overtime Tilt

Equality and Ridgway high school basketball teams came out of holiday retirement last night to stage one of the best games of the entire season. The Cardinals won the battle of longtime rivals in an overtime thriller, 55-53.

Fans who witnessed the tussle at the Ridgway goalry saw the two clubs battle down to the final buzzer and through an overtime session packed with action. Equality's Ken Woolley and Ridgway's Don Crayne traded a pair of goals in the overtime period before the invaders broke in front for keeps.

Ray Crayne, tall Equality regular who has been sidelined for several weeks due to a shoulder injury was back in action last night for the Cards, and he dropped in the fielder which set up the victory. Ridgway's Charlie Barter and Equality's Allen Porter matched free tosses in rounding out the overtime scoring.

Ridgway swept into a first quarter lead, 14-8, behind Denny Drone's leadership, but Equality opened up in the second and drew within two points of the Eagles at halftime. The intermission score was Ridgway 29, Equality 27. Woolley, Crayne and Eddie Kaufmann accounted for all Equality's points in the second stanza.

With George Teegarden coming forth to aid the able Woolley offensively in the third, Equality outscored its host, 16-10, and went into a 43-39 lead. Ridgway fashioned a rally of its own in the fourth and knotted the count at 48-48 ahead of the final buzzer. Equality wouldn't be denied the honors in the extra frame.

It was a typical Equality-Ridgway contest with both teams scrapping all the way. Victory broke a tie in the Greater Egyptian conference standings between the two schools with Equality moving into sole possession of fifth place on three victories and four defeats. Ridgway won the preliminary, 54-49.

Equality is host to unbeaten Shawneetown Friday night while Ridgway entertains tough Cave-in-Rock.

Our own Bill Melton was a close second, as was John Thomas Ellis, Shawneetown. Melton missed on the finale, calling West Frankfort the champs, while Ellis failed to foresee Harrisburg's loss to Carbondale. We gave Melton second place inasmuch as Ellis forgot to list us as scribe for the championship game.

Those who missed on two games were Larry Owen, "Slick" Thompson and Lowell Vaughn, Harrisburg; Dick Lehr, Bridgeport; and Hubert Flannell, Carrier Mills. Thompson, Flannell and Jim Coffee, Shawneetown, all listed the final game score, 69-61, which placed them within 13 points of the correct numbers. No one came closer. The Harrisburg-Carbondale outcome caused the most grief, 20 going wrong on it. The Mt. Vernon - West Frankfort and consolation games were other high hurdles for dopesters.

Here's another blank, if you've a mind to try again. Remember, they must be postmarked by Thursday evening. Don't forget to list your name and address, and the score for the game of the week.

Looking At Sports

By Ed Kirkpatrick

We were greatly interested by some of the statistics being kept during the Egyptian holiday tournament at Davenport gym last week. These statistics, maintained on each game, were later compiled into a package deal by local athletic officials and turned over to the Illinois Athletic Association. Gene Kimberlin and Bob Gaskins did the actual pencil work on each contest. Here's a few things the work sheets revealed.

During the eight tourney games a total of 959 field goals were attempted. Of this number, 360 were successful. But the interesting part shows up in the fact that 261 successful attempts, or approximately 72 per cent did not touch the backboard. We are informed that the state—at the request of national rule makers—is running some tests to see just how much the backboard is actually used in making a goal these days. This brings out the rumor that there is a move on foot to do away with the backboard. (Nope, we're not kidding.) As the figures reveal, it is surprising how little the backboard is used nowadays. The old bank shot apparently left with the era of the two-handed shot, the center jump and the great defensive player.

Another interesting revelation came on foul shooting. A total of 304 free throws were awarded. Of this number, players connected on 196 of the first attempts, 123 of the second tries. Thus, they made approximately 64.5% of their first attempts, and those who were awarded a second, converted approximately 62.7% of the times. Illinois is a test case this year in regards to the foul rule, you may recall. In Illinois, the bonus provision is used throughout the game. In most states, the game is played with the bonus rule applying until the final three minutes after which the old rule of two shots prevails.

Other facts revealed by the statisticians' pencils are: Total points averaged per game, 126.37. Winner's 71. Loser's average: 55.37. Average number of personal fouls per game: 37. Number of times per game a player committed five personal fouls: 2.3 per game. Cases of traveling: 55 in the eight games. Total jump balls (including center jump) in all games: 97. Times ball thrown in from out-of-bounds: At the end (not including throw-in after goal)—102; at side (not including throw-in after T-foul)—76. Additional statistics were also kept on progress of the game in the final three minutes.

The "You Pick 'em" contest regarding the tourney games was won by Mrs. Hubert Flannell, Carrier Mills, making it the second straight week a blank signed by a woman has taken the honors. Mrs. Flannell's blank was the only perfect one in the lot. She called all eight games correctly and missed the score of the final tiff by only 15 points.

Our own Bill Melton was a close second, as was John Thomas Ellis, Shawneetown. Melton missed on the finale, calling West Frankfort the champs, while Ellis failed to foresee Harrisburg's loss to Carbondale. We gave Melton second place inasmuch as Ellis forgot to list us as scribe for the championship game.

Indiana, With Five Non-Loop Losses, is Impressive with 95-77 Win Over Michigan

CHICAGO (U)—Five non-conference defeats don't eliminate a defending champion from the race, and hence Coach Branch McCracken's Indiana is a cager's threatened today to be a strong factor in the race for the title they have held for the past two seasons.

The Hoosiers romped to the 10th highest score in Big Ten history Monday night to swamp Michigan, 95-77, as center Don Schlundt, an All-American last year and the Big Ten scoring champion, looped 30 points.

The victory was most impressive because of the score, but equally because in pre-conference competition the Hoosiers were miserable. They opened with a victory over little Valparaiso and then lost to Missouri on the Bloomington floor, by three points.

Poor Pre-Season Record
After that they beat Notre Dame and then topped in four straight games, to Southern Methodist, Cincinnati, Kansas State and St. Louis. It was the worst Indiana non-conference record in 49 years.

But that was forgotten against the Wolverines as Schlundt sparked the comeback in which Michigan never went ahead. They came within three points in the second half but Indiana made six straight points and Michigan never threatened again.

Thirty-point men were factors in three of the four Big Ten games on the opening Monday night. Dick Garmaker, who finished third in conference scoring last year, potted 32 points although his Gophers were upset by Northwestern, 74-72, on Frank Ehmann's bucket with 31 seconds left to play.

Fraley Predictions IN THE Sport Parade

By Oscar Fraley

UNITED PRESS Sports Writer
NEW YORK (U)—We're off and running today on the 1955 chapter of sports, incorporated, and after a rather hazy look into the bottom of the holiday cup here are Fearless Fraley's "guilt" edged predictions for the year ahead.

The Milwaukee Braves will win the National League pennant in a stiff three-cornered battle with the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants only to lose the World Series to the New York Yankees.

And, oh yes, for the benefit of those palpitating Red Sox fans, Ted Williams will play for Boston again this season.

Boxing
Rocky Marciano will make two successful defenses of the world heavyweight championship, defeating Archie Moore and Briton Don Cockell. More and more critics will arrive at the decision that he is a fine heavyweight champion.

The several investigations will continue in an attempt to unearth boxing's underworld connections, but little will be developed.

Golf
Gene Littler will win the U. S. Open golf championship as the young guys really take over. But it will be some old pappy guy who weathers through to cop the PGA.

Basketball
Kentucky will come on to be the number one college basketball team, losing only one game as it produces one of its finest talents. Fort Wayne, loaded with talent, will take the National Basketball Assn. Professional title.

Tennis
Little Maureen Connolly will come back as great as ever and duplicate Tony Trabert's sweep of the Wimbledon and United States tennis titles. Trabert will lead the United States to successful defense of the recaptured Davis Cup.

Horse Racing
Belair stud's Nashua, the winter book favorite for the Kentucky Derby. But a Calumet darkhorse named Trenton will cop the rose run. Willie Shoemaker again will walk off with jockey honors.

Track And Field
This will be a year to relax before the buildup for the 1956 Olympics. So nobody will lower the world mile mark to 3:56 until next year.

Football
Ohio State, which arrived a year early, will be really terrific as it wins the mythical national football crown in a walk. In pro football, the Chicago Bears will come back to their old glory.

Old Fearless will continue to make every opponent a champion.

Kentucky and Duquesne Rated Top College Teams

NEW YORK (U)—The United Press college basketball ratings, with won-lost records through Jan. 1 in parentheses:

Team	Points
1. Kentucky (7-1)	344
2. Duquesne (7-1)	271
3. N. C. State (12-1)	207
4. LaSalle (9-3)	202
5. San Francisco (8-1)	183
6. Missouri (7-2)	110
7. Utah (7-2)	105
8. Illinois (6-2)	94
9. UCLA (8-2)	93
10. Minnesota (5-3)	35
Second 10 teams—11. Dayton, 33; 12. Niagara, 29; 13. George Washington, 28; 14. (tie), Iowa and Maryland, 22 each; 15. Notre Dame 16; 17. (tie), Cincinnati and Holy Cross, 14 each; 19. Wisconsin, 13; 20. Alabama, 11.

Robin Freeman, leading scorer in the nation, surpassed his average for the season with 39 points as Ohio State topped Michigan State, 83-76, while Wisconsin, a surprise winner over Illinois in the opening game of the league campaign, found that Dick Cable's 25 points weren't enough as Iowa won an 86-69 match.

Hawkeyes Come From Behind
The Hawkeyes, favorites to win the crown in pre-season picks, trailed most of the first half against the Badgers, but came from behind as Deacon Davis and Bill Seaburg each netted 21 points.

Ohio State, despite Freeman's performance and 22 points by John Miller, never could pull far ahead of the Spartans, paced by Al Ferrari's 28 points. But the Buckeyes tallied eight points in the final 54 seconds for the final margin.

Northwestern was ahead of Minnesota only three times during their battle, but Ehmann's bucket and sophomore guard Dick Mast's free throw with one second to play produced the win.

Purdue beat Bradley, 109-92, in its final non-league game before beginning conference play.

Fight The Wild River

by EDMUNDS CLAUSSEN

THE STORY: Capt. Irving Crotch of the riverboat General Heath operated on the Colorado River, carrying miners and supplies during the gold rush of the early 60's. He had more passengers than room and Captain Crotch sometimes fought them off. Aboard is a young miner named Cal Dreyfus, who battled for his passage.

The lank Pennsylvanian wiped the stain of a bloody fist from his cheek. Frowning darkly, his words were sharp. "When a man asks for it he's got an honest answer comin'."

"You've got your rights," Crotch consented.

For the time being they were alone and Dreyfus turned his talk into another channel. "Something you might not know about La Paz. My claim's back in the hills where the crowd's not yet found its way. Plenty of ore in the Hassayampa country. This placer gold's only the first excitement."

Crotch gave him a scrutinizing look. Knew Dreyfus was scraping a favor. "I figured on that," he admitted.

"It's so, Captain. When they stumble on the real thing you'll be haulin' steady pay cargoes — Sugar Logan's new mill won't be big enough."

Now two of the Cocopah deckhands arrived, too late to join the fighting, and Crotch murmured, "Thanks for telling me, Dreyfus."

His Indian deckhands were dressed merely in breech-clouts and carried four-foot lengths of firewood from the bunkers, a wild crew when they got to fighting. Crotch made a gesture with his hand toward the gangplank, signaling they were to run it out to the river bank. It was time to allow those ashore who were hungry for pleasure.

Dreyfus was the first to climb down the gangplank. Slyly, then, Crotch offered his friendly warning, a glint touching his eye. "A man can get in trouble in Yuma. Be careful!"

But Dreyfus gave him a sober look. "None of them trollops for me. It's Queenie's pastry shop."

"So it's Queenie, eh? Well, they say nobody can teach a man new ideas better than a young widow."

There was a bond between the two that went deeper than political convictions. Both loved this new land of their adoption, both understood it, even as they understood each other.

Crotch's remark had caused Dreyfus to chuckle good-naturedly as he moved down the plank. "Wouldn't know about that, Captain. If she's got something new, it ain't showed up yet."

A short time later Crotch saw the slim figure of his agent coming up the single-file pathway from Yuma. The man was not hurrying but there obviously was a tenseness of purpose about him. Crotch waited beside the rail, sensing in some mysterious manner that Modest had a message for him beyond the ordinary. Those machinery crates they had loaded would bear explaining.

Fernand Modest was an outshoot of several nationalities, a young man with dark features and quick eyes and shiny hair groomed to perfection so that it matched the meticulous appearance of his black suit coat. He had opened a trading store close to Yuma landing, and if this influx of miners continued it was an easy gamble that some day he'd be rich.

He smiled as he stepped onto the deck planks. "Captain, I passed many of your passengers racing like horses for the landing. Tonight will be a big fandango."

"Tonight," Crotch replied, "a good many heads will be sore. If they don't get back there'll be that many less to contend with tomorrow."

"Captain, you are to meet the fort commandant at the Gila House. You are to go to room 11 — do not tell anyone you are to meet."

"Why not see him at the fort, if this is army business?"

Modest merely lifted a shoulder. "It's about the cases?"

The side sweep of Modest's eyes momentarily cut into Crotch, and he understood Crotch knew what the cases contained. But this was not his business; again he lifted a shoulder. "I know only that they were brought to my warehouse in the dead of night. I was to consign them to La Paz."

"In care of Lieutenant Lane."

Modest nodded. "Perhaps the commandant has more to say."

"He better have!" Crotch made a gesture to his mate who was climbing down from the Texas deck.

When Ben Goss moved closer he warned him to allow no one aboard who had not already paid his passage. Goss was a bushy-bearded, virile man whose mind, once made up, could not be easily altered. When Crotch went over the gangplank with Modest he was leaving the General Heath in capable hands.

At the outset the Federal government had forsaken them by withdrawing troops from the isolated posts. To make matters worse, the blundering policy of the army before its recall had driven the Apaches on the warpath.

Second Lieutenant George Bascom, a short-haired boy from the East, believed Apaches responded only to fear. Accordingly, he had induced Cochise, the friendly Chiricahua chieftain, into his Sibley tent under a flag of truce. Naively he announced that Cochise, and members of his family who had entered in a spirit of friendliness with him, were now prisoners. Cochise reacted exactly as an Indian should; he escaped from the trap, but his relatives were not so fortunate; and Bascom had put his foolish theories to test on these people. But this treacherous move set the Apaches to butchering whites in the fiercest war the territory had yet seen.

These matters lay grave on Crotch as he and his agent Modest followed the desert pathway to Yuma. Heavy, too, was the thought that so many of his friends were men with staunch Southern leanings. Sugar Logan and John Slade, at La Paz, and Jim Melott, engineer of the General Heath since they had put her together in a Sacramento drydock. During their earlier years they had steamed the California rivers, bucking the cut-throat competition of the gold trade. But now the Colorado was opening fresh interior territory, rich in promise, heavy in reward.

The ancient river tribes had a legend that several hundred years ago the Spaniards had sailed ships with great sails up the Colorado. Even then they had filled their galley holds with gold. The need for navigation was increasing hourly.

"You are thinking of your friends who do not believe as you believe," Modest said. His voice drew Crotch up short, and Crotch saw they had reached the long adobe store where Modest prospered. He caught the gravity on the other man's face, the same deep worry that lay across the territory. Modest said wearily, "It is too bad. But some day the war will be over."

"How do you feel about it?" Crotch asked slowly.

But Modest shrugged. "It is Arizona I'm thinking of, Captain."

Report Driving Convictions, Courts Warned

SPRINGFIELD — Court officials who fail to report convictions under Illinois' new drivers' license law are guilty of omission of duty, a state official warned today.

William Colvin, head of the secretary of state's driver's license division, commented in response to a statement by an Urbana justice of the peace, who said Colvin's office "can go lay an egg" before he'd turn in the reports to the state.

"We get a lot of inquiries from people who want to know why we don't do something about drunken and reckless drivers and hot rodders," Colvin said. "We can't warn these drivers, interview them, suspend or revoke their licenses unless we are notified at the local level."

Justice of the Peace J. M. Griffith, Urbana, contacted by a reporter, admitted he hadn't been sending in the conviction reports and didn't plan to do so.

"It's too much red tape and I don't have the time," Griffith said. Colvin said reporting convictions "is the most important single function in the administration of the new law because the law's effect is based entirely on the action of local law enforcement officers and the courts."

Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter said the law helped save 100 lives on Illinois highways and streets in 1954.

"It should be sufficiently clear by now that any person who speaks out against the new driver license law is actually speaking in favor of increasing the slaughter on the highways," he said.

Carpenter said the increasing trend of death on Illinois streets and highways was "stopped and reversed" in 1954 for the first time since the war years.

GM Plans $325 Million Common Stock Issue

NEW YORK — General Motors Corp., which has spent more than two billion dollars the past six years for expansion, plans to raise $325 million through the sale of common stock for further growth.

The world's largest auto maker said part of the additional capital funds will be used to restore working capital depleted by the huge postwar spending program.

GM's stock was the most active on the New York Stock Exchange Monday. A total of 654,000 shares changed hands. It closed at $105.13, a gain of $7.25 a share.

The stock was up $9.50 at its high, which meant a rise of $840,881,262 in the valuation of the 88,513,817 shares outstanding.

It was understood the Securities & Exchange Commission would make a routine preliminary investigation to see if anyone profited illegally in the spectacular rise.

Hammaraskjold Reaches Hankow In Red China

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammaraskjold reached Hankow on Red China's Yangtze river today and elected to stay overnight before proceeding to Peiping Wednesday.

Hammaraskjold is on a delicate mission to obtain the release of 11 imprisoned American airmen.

The first message from the general secretary and his party from behind the Bamboo Curtain said "All is well."

Hankow is about midway between Canton and Peiping, where Hammaraskjold will begin his negotiations with Red Chinese Premier and Foreign Minister Chou En Lai.
